Taking Canola Production to the Next Level
Sponsored by Great Plains Canola Assoc., Oklahoma State University, Kansas State University and the Canola Industry

Register for Canola College at www.canola.okstate.edu

Once again, the Great Plains Canola Association, Oklahoma State University, Kansas State University and partners from the canola industry are teaming up to conduct Canola College. We had excellent participation in 2014 and with the growing interest in and success with the crop, we have every reason to believe that the crowd will be even larger in 2015.

This will be the premier canola education/training event in the region in 2015. Anyone with an interest in canola will want to be part of this event where they will be able to share ideas and experiences with canola experts and more than 300 new and veteran canola producers and industry members.

There will be four concurrent breakout sessions with the following topics covered by experts in their areas. Every attendee will have the opportunity to hear from every speaker:

- Basic Production Practices – Mike Stamm, Canola Breeder, KSU and Heath Sanders, Canola Field Specialist, GPCA
- Advanced Production Practices – Bob Schrock, Grower, Kiowa, KS and Jay Bjerke, Agronomic Services Manager, Northstar Agri Industries
- Canola Economics – Eric Devyst, Extension Agricultural Economist, Dept of Ag Econ, OSU and Josh Bushong, Extension Canola Specialist, Dept of Plant and Soil Sciences, OSU
- Soil Fertility and Soil Health – Brian Arnall, Extension Soil Fertility Specialist and Jason Warren, Extension Soil Management Specialist, Dept of Plant and Soil Sciences, OSU

Added for 2015 - Pest Management Experts at Canola College

Canola Pest Management Experts: Dr. Angela Post, Weed Science, Dr. Tom Royer, Entomology, and Dr. John Damicone, Plant Pathology will be at Canola College to provide advice and answer questions on canola pest control. They will be located at a special booth convenient for visiting with attendees.

A meal and coffee breaks are being sponsored by members of the canola industry. Time will be allotted on the program for attendees to meet with Canola College sponsors at their booths.
